This is a perfect example of how effective simple die-cut lettering can be once applied to your vehicle. The vinyl we use for projects like this comes in a variety of colors so you're not just restricted to Black or White.

This photo shows a White VW Passat with the top portion of the vehicle wrapped with a digitally-printed blue pattern. A die-cut door panel was added under the wrap to include their logo.

This VW started off bright yellow. We added a Partial Wrap between the doors and die-cut vinyl lettering around the wheel wells for the phone number.

This Chevy HHR has a digitally-printed Partial Wrap added to the entire rear of the vehicle. The logos on the door and the phone number on the front-fender were all cut from solid-colored pieces of vinyl.

Here we have a black Dodge Magnum with a large oval-shaped decal added to the side with another die-cut decal added to the hood. Sometimes a well-designed Partial Wrap can be just as effective as a Full Wrap.

This Lamborghini started off Bright Yellow then was wrapped "Ithaca Verde Green" using FLX-PAINT vinyl. After that, we installed the black stripe graphics with our clients name and tagline.

This is a perfect example of a Full Wrap. Notice how all areas of the vehicle received graphics including the Windows (using Window Perf material) and the roof.

This Dodge Magnum started off Black. Our client decided to go with a Partial Wrap intentionally leaving some of the black factory paint exposed towards the bottom-rear.

Here we have a Chevy HHR that was wrapped with a digitally-printed custom stripe package. Take note of how well our digitally-printed vinyl "pops".

Our client wanted their VW Bug to look like a "Piggy Bank" on wheels. They were super pleased with how it turned out. It even has a slot on the top and a curly tail on the rear!

This is a good example of a Full Wrap that has a Stripe Package incorporated into the design. Getting everything to perfectly fall in place requires careful engineering and an installer who knows what they're doing.
